In mathematics, one method of defining a group is by a presentation. One specifies a set S of generators so that every element of the group can be written as a word in S . This course is about group presentations, $\langle X \mid R \rangle$ where X is the set of generators and R is the set of relations. In general it is impossible to analyse a group by a presentation. MA Presentations of Groups. Lecturer: Derek Holt. Term: 2. Status for Mathematics students: List C. This module is suitable for Third Year. Group Presentation. A presentation of a group is a description of a set I and a subset R of the free group $F(I)$ generated by I , written $\langle I \mid R \rangle$. Group Theory constructible finite L -presentations: they are the "branch" groups defined by R . Subjects: Group Theory (math). PRESENTATIONS IN GROUPS: 5 most common reasons why presentations are poor: 1. Confusing organization--hard to follow. 2. Poor delivery--not polished. THB deficiency of a finite presentation of a group is the number of generators minus the number of relations in the presentation. It has been known for some time. an aspherical group presentation, then for every $S \neq \emptyset$ R the and holds for standard presentations of free Burnside groups of large odd expo-
